temple

A house or dwelling of God, a building erected and set apart for the worship of the true God. The word is used in the Bible, [1] Of the tabernacle, 1 Sam 1:9. [2] Of Solomon's temple, the wonder of the whole world. This is referred to in all parts of the Bible written before the captivity, when this temple was destroyed. It is also referred to at the time of the building of the second temple, after the Return. [3] The temple as rebuilt in the times of Ezra and Nehemiah. This was larger than that of Solomon, but not so rich and beautiful. [4] All references in the New Testament to the existing temple are to Herod's temple, built by Herod the Great to win the allegiance of the Jews. [5] Of Christ's body or human nature, in which the fulness of the Godhead dwelt, John 2:19, 21; Col 2:9. [6] Of the human body, 1 Cor 3:16.

The seat in which a king sits on ceremonial occasions. The scripture describes the throne of Solomon as the finest and richest throne in the world, 1 Ki 10:20. It was all of ivory, and plated with pure gold. The ascent was six steps; the back was round, and two arms supported the seat. Twelve golden lions, one on each side of every step, made a principal part of its ornament.

Throne is also used as a symbol of sovereign power and dignity; thus Pharaoh tells Joseph, Gen 41:40, Only in the throne will I be greater than thou.

Heaven is the throne of God, Isa 66:1. Justice and judgement are the habitation of the throne of the Lord, Ps 89:14. Christ Jesus is set down at the right hand of the throne of God, Heb 12:2.

The practice of paying tithes is very ancient; for we find, Gen 14:20, that Abraham gave tithes to Melchizedek, king of Salem, at his return from his expedition against Chedorlaomer, and the four kings in confederacy with him. Abraham gave him the tithe of all the booty taken from the enemy. Jacob imitated this piety of his grandfather when he vowed to the Lord the tithe of all the substance he might acquire in Mesopotamia, Gen 28:22. Under the law, Moses ordained, Lev 27:30, 31, 32, All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the tree, is the Lord's; it is holy unto the Lord, etc.

There were three sorts of tithes to be paid from the people (besides those from the Levites to the priests), Num 28:26, 27, etc. (1) To the Levites, for their maintenance, Num 18:21, 24. (2) For the Lord's feasts and sacrifices, to be eaten in the place which the Lord should choose to put his name there; to wit, where the ark should be, the tabernacle or temple. This tenth part was either sent to Jerusalem in kind, or, if it was too far, they sent the value in money, which was to be laid out for oxen, sheep, wine, or what else they pleased, Deut 14:22, 23, 24, etc. (3) Besides these two, there was to be, every third year, a tithe for the poor, to be eaten in their own dwellings, Deut 14:28, 29.

In the New Testament, neither our Saviour, nor his apostles have commanded any thing in this affair of tithes.

This word is taken in three different senses. (1) For the material tongue, or organ of speech, Jas 3:5. (2) For the tongue or language that is spoken in any country, Deut 28:49. (3) For good or bad discourse, Pr 12:18; 17:20.

To gnaw one's tongue, is a token of fury, despair, and torment. The men that worship the beast are said to gnaw their tongues for pain, Rev 16:10. The scourge of the tongue, Job 5:21, is malicious scandal, calumny, insulting, and offensive speeches.

The gift of tongues, which God granted to the Apostles and disciples assembled at Jerusalem, on the day of Pentecost, Acts 2:3, 4, etc., is not fully understood. St. Paul speaks of it as still existing, 1 Cor 12:10; 14:2.

Tophet

Tophet, "place of burning," was at Jerusalem, lying to the south of the city, in the valley of the children of Hinnom. There they burned the carcases and other filthiness from the city. It was in the same place that they cast away the ashes and remains of the images of false gods, when they demolished their altars, and broke down their statues. Isaiah seems to allude to this custom of burning dead carcases in Tophet, when speaking of the defeat of the army of Sennacherib, Isa 30:33.

Jacob had twelve sons, who were the heads of so many great families, which altogether formed a great nation; every one of these families was called a tribe. But Jacob on his death bed adopted Ephraim and Manasseh, the sons of Joseph, as two tribes of Israel, Gen 48:5. Instead of twelve tribes, there were now thirteen, that of Joseph being divided into two. However, in the distribution of lands to the people made by Joshua, by the command of God, they counted but twelve tribes, and made but twelve lots. For the tribe of Levi, which was appointed to the service of the tabernacle of the Lord, had no share in the distribution of the land, but only some cities to dwell in, and the firstfruits, tithes and oblations of the people, Num 35:2; Josh 13:7, 8, 14, 33.

The twelve tribes, while they were in the desert, encamped round about the tabernacle of the covenant, every one according to its order. The Levites were distributed around the tabernacle, nearer the holy place than the other tribes, Num 2:2, 3, etc.

In the marches of the army of Israel, the twelve tribes were divided into four great bodies, as bodies of troops, each composed of three tribes. Between the second and third there came the Levites and priests, with the ark of the Lord, the curtain, the planks, the pillars, and all the other furniture of the tabernacle.

The twelve tribes continued united under one head, making but one state, one people, and one monarchy, till after the death of Solomon. Then ten of the tribes of Israel revolted from the house of David, and received for their king Jeroboam, the son of Nebat; and only the tribes of Judah and Benjamin continued under the government of Rehoboam, 1 Ki 12:16, 20. After a separate existence of a little over 200 years, Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, took the city of Samaria, destroyed it, took away the rest of the inhabitants of Israel, carried them beyond the Euphrates, and sent other inhabitants into the country to cultivate and possess it, 2 Ki 17:6, 24; 18:10, 11. This ended the kingdom of the ten tribes of Israel.

As to the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, who remained under the government of the kings of the family of David, they continued a much longer time in their own country. But at last Nebuchadnezzar took the city of Jerusalem, entirely ruined it, and burnt the temple, and took away all the inhabitants of Judah and Benjamin to Babylon, and to the other provinces of his empire. This captivity continued for seventy years, as the prophet had foretold them, Jer 25:11, 12; 29:10.

Then came the Return under Ezra and Nehemiah, the rebuilding of Jerusalem and the temple. But the people never entirely regained their independence. There has been much discussion of the identity of the ten tribes after the destruction of their kingdom, on the understanding that they were destroyed as a race as well as a nation. But the Jews are always spoken of in the New Testament as the twelve tribes, never as the two, and Ezra 6:17 certainly indicates that they were thus considered at the time of the Return.

By usury is generally understood in the Bible any interest on a loan, whether in money or in wheat or other commodities. Modern usage has confined the meaning of the word to an unlawful interest.

The law of God prohibits rigorous imposing of interest or exacting it, or a return of a loan without regard to the condition of the borrower; whether poverty occasioned his borrowing, or a visible prospect of gain by employing the borrowed goods.

The Hebrews were plainly commanded in Ex 22:25, etc., not to receive interest for money from any that borrowed for necessity, as in the case in Neh 5:5, 7.

vail, or veil

The use of the vail in the East was not so general in ancient as in modern times, as much of the present custom dates from the time of Mohammed only. The vail was worn only as an article of ornamental dress; by betrothed maidens in the presence of their future husbands and at the wedding; or by loose women for purposes of concealment.

The vail of the temple was that separating the Holy Place from the Holy of Holies. This signified separation, since none but the high priest could pass beyond into the most sacred place, and he only on the Day of Atonement. It was rent at the time of the crucifixion to show that now all men could freely come to God.

The Apostle speaks of the vail of ignorance, blindness, and hardness of heart, which kept the Jews from understanding the scriptures of the Old Testament, the spiritual sense and meaning of the law, and from seeing that Christ is the end of the law for righteousness, John 9:39; 2 Cor 3:14, 15.

God compares his people to a vine, which he had brought out of Egypt, and planted in Palestine, as a good soil, but which, instead of bringing forth good fruit, brought forth only bitter fruit, and wild grapes, Ps 80:8; Isa 5:1, etc. In John 15:1, Christ says, I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman.

The vine of Sodom, Deut 32:32, is probably what is known as the apples of Sodom, which appear as edible fruit, but on being plucked turn at once to dust, like a puff-ball. The phrase is perhaps figurative, no real fruit being intended.

Noah planted the vine after the deluge, and was the first that cultivated it, Gen 9:20. Many are of opinion, that wine was not unknown before the deluge, and that this Patriarch only continued to cultivate the vine after this great catastrophe, as he had done before. But others think that he knew not the force of wine, having never used it before, nor having ever seen any one use it. He is supposed to be the first that pressed out the juice of the grape, and to have reduced it to a liquor. Before him, men only ate the grapes, like other fruit.

Is a promise made to God, of doing some good thing hereafter. The use of vows was common in Bible times. When Jacob went into Mesopotamia he vowed to God the tenth of his estate, and promised to offer it at Beth-el to the honour and service of God, Gen 28:20, 22. There are several laws for the regulation and due execution of vows. A man might devote himself, or his children, to the Lord. Samuel was vowed and consecrated to the service of the Lord, and was offered to him, to serve in the tabernacle, 1 Sam 1:22, 28. If a man or woman vowed themselves, or their children to the Lord, they were obliged to adhere strictly to his service, according to the conditions of the vow; if not, they were to be redeemed. The price for redeeming persons of such and such an age is particularly limited, Lev 27:2, 3, etc. Only if the person was poor, and could not procure the sum limited, the priest imposed a ransom upon him according to his abilities.

If any one had vowed an animal that was clean, he had not the liberty of redeeming it, or of exchanging it, but was obliged to sacrifice it to the Lord, or give it to the priest, according to the manner of his vow. If it was an unclean animal, and such as was not allowed to be sacrificed, the priest made valuation of it; and if the proprietor would redeem it, he added a fifth part to the value, by way of forfeit. The same was done in proportion, when the thing vowed was a house or a field. See Lev 27:9, 10, etc. They could not devote the firstlings of beasts, because they belonged to the Lord, Lev 27:26. Whatsoever was solemnly devoted to the Lord could not be redeemed, of whatever nature or quality it was, Lev 27:28. Concerning the vows of the Nazarites, see Nazarite.

The vows and promises of children were void, except they were ratified, either by the express or tacit consent of their parents. And it was the same with the vows of married women; they were of no validity, unless they were confirmed by the express or tacit consent of their husbands, Num 30:1, 2, 3, etc.

Under the New Testament, a vow is either general to all Christians, as that which is made at baptism; or particular and special, as when we bind ourselves to a greater endeavour, to leave some sin, or perform some duty. A vow, as one observes, must be made deliberately and devoutly, for a sudden passion makes not a vow; and we ought to vow nothing but what is in our power to perform. Some vows are of evil things to an evil end; such vows ought neither to be made nor kept; of this kind was the vow or curse which the Jews bound themselves under, who conspired to murder Paul, Acts 23:12.

The performance of solemn vows is strictly enjoined upon us in scripture, Eccl 5:4.

We may distinguish two kinds of wars among the Hebrews. Some were of obligation as being expressly commanded by the Lord; but others were free and voluntary. The first were such as God commanded them to undertake. For example, against the Amalekites and the Canaanites, which were nations devoted to destruction for their sins. The others were undertaken by the captains of the people, to revenge some injuries offered to the nation, to punish some insults or offences. Such was that which the Hebrews made against the city of Gibeah, and against the tribe of Benjamin, which would uphold them in their fault, Judg 20:8. And such was that which David made against the Ammonites, whose king had affronted his ambassadors, 2 Sam 10:1–14. Or to maintain and defend their allies; as that of Joshua against the kings of the Canaanites, to protect the Gibeonites, Josh 10:6–11.

The common meaning of war, in scripture, is a state of hostility between nations, states, provinces, or parties, as in 1 Ki 14:30; Luke 14:31, and many other places: but it is taken in a spiritual sense in 2 Cor 10:3, where the apostle says, We do not war after the flesh.

Since the common foot-coverings of the East were sandals, and the roads were hot and dusty during the dry season and muddy during the rains, it was a necessary custom to see that the feet were washed on entering a house. The common utensils made it hard to wash one's own feet, and as a rule it was the task of a menial, but when one wished to honour his visitor extremely, or to indicate his own humility, he would himself perform the service.

At the Lord's Supper the feet of the Apostles had to be washed; no disciple would acknowledge himself the lowest among them; and it was our Saviour himself who, to give them an example of humility, washed their feet, John 13:5.

Ceremonial washing, as distinct from washing for cleanliness, was one of the traditions of the Jews, Heb 9:10. To wash one's feet in butter, etc., Job 29:6; Ps 58:10, was a figurative expression to indicate a great quantity of these things. To wash one's hands was a sign of innocence, Mat 27:4.

As the Hebrews had not the use of coined money, which was of a certain determined weight, they weighed all the gold and silver they used in trade. The shekel, the half shekel, and the talents, are not only denominations of money of a certain value, of gold and silver, but also of a certain weight. When Moses named the drugs which were to compose the perfume to be burnt upon the golden altar, he says, that they were to take five hundred shekels of myrrh, etc., Ex 30:23. And in 2 Sam 14:26, it is said, that Absalom's hair weighed two hundred shekels.

The shekel of the sanctuary. according to several interpreters, was double the common shekel: but others think it was the same as the common shekel, and the words of the sanctuary, are added, to express a just and exact weight, according to the standards that were kept in the temple, or tabernacle.

Among the Hebrews, even before the law, a widow who had no children by her husband, was allowed to marry the brother of her deceased husband, in order to raise up children who might enjoy his inheritance, and perpetuate his name and family, Gen 38:6, 8, 9, 11. The law that appoints these marriages is delivered in Deut 25:5, 6, etc.

It was looked upon as a great unhappiness for a man to die without an heir, and to see his inheritance pass into another family. This law was not confined to brothers in law only, but was extended to more distant relatives of the same line, as may be seen in the example of Ruth, who married Boaz, after she had been refused by a nearer kinsman. Widowhood, as well as barrenness, was a kind of shame and reproach in Israel, Isa 54:4. It was presumed, that a woman of merit and reputation might have found a husband, either in the family of her deceased husband, if he died without children or in some other family, if he had left children.

God frequently recommends to his people to be very careful in affording relief to the widow and orphan, Ex 22:22; Deut 10:18. St. Paul would have us honour widows that are widows indeed, and desolate, that is, destitute of such as ought to help and relieve them, such as their husbands and children, 1 Tim 5:3, 4, 5. There were widows in the Christian church, who, because of their poverty, were maintained at the charge of the faithful, and who were to attend upon the poor and sick.

A wilderness, or desert place, in the Bible means simply a place that is not inhabited and usually not cultivated. Much could be used as pasture.

The desert of Arabia, wherein the Israelites sojourned forty years after the Exodus, is called wilderness, Neh 9:19, 21; Ps 78:40, 52, 107:4; Jer 2:2.

The wilderness of Shur lies towards the Red Sea. This was the place of Hagar's wandering, Gen 16:7; and the Israelites passed through it after the Exodus, Ex 15:22.

The wilderness of Paran was in Arabia Petrea. Ishmael, the son of Abraham, dwelt in the borders of this wilderness, Gen 21:21. It was from hence that Moses sent out spies to bring intelligence concerning the land of promise, Num 13:3.

The wilderness of Sin, between Elim and Sinai, Ex 16:1.

The desert of Sinai, is that which lies about, and is adjacent to, mount Sinai. The people encamped there a long time, and received the greater part of those laws which are written in the books of Moses, Ex 19:2.

The powerful operations of God's Spirit, quickening or reviving the heart toward God, are compared to the blowing of the wind, John 3:8. For as with the wind, man perceives, by the effects of it, that there is such a thing, and that it does blow, yet his power cannot restrain it, neither can his reason reach to know whence it rises, or from how far it comes, or how far it reaches; so is the spiritual change wrought in the soul, freely, where, in whom, when, and in what measure the Spirit pleases; and also powerfully, so as to make an evident sensible change, though the manner thereof be incomprehensible.

There were many excellent vineyards in Palestine, and wine was made for common use. Water was scanty, especially at some seasons, and likely to be infected. Wine and milk were therefore the common beverages. The use of wine was forbidden to the priests during all the time they were in the tabernacle, and employed in the service of the altar, Lev 10:9. This liquor was also forbidden to the Nazarites Num 6:3.

In Gen 27:28, 37, corn and wine denote all sorts of temporal good things. In the style of the sacred writers, the wine, or the cup, often represents the anger of God, Ps 60:3; Jer 25:15. There were certain charitable women at Jerusalem, as they tell us, who used to mix certain drugs with wine, to make it stronger, and more capable of easing pain. Some think it was such a mixture that was offered to our Saviour to drink, before he was fastened to the cross, Mark 15:23.

Since there was little writing among most of the people in olden times the evidence of a transaction was most often given by some tangible memorial, as in Gen 21:30; Josh 22:10, or some significant ceremony.

Witness in Greek is Martūs, or Martŭr, and signifies one that gives testimony to the truth at the expense of his life. It is in this sense that the word is mainly used in the New Testament, and our word martyr has come from this also.

The law appoints, that in case of a capital charge one witness only was not sufficient, Deut 17:6. When any one was condemned to die the witnesses were the first that began the execution. They threw the first stone, for example, if the party was to be stoned, Deut 17:7. The law condemned a false witness to the same punishment that he would have subjected his neighbour to, Deut 19:16, 17, 18, 19. On the whole the law was very careful to provide evidence in all cases, and to punish both false swearing and one who kept back a part of the truth.

The disciples who had been with Jesus, were to be witnesses for him, Luke 24:48, and when they chose another apostle in place of Judas, they thought fit to appoint one who had been a witness of the resurrection along with them, Acts 1:22.

The apostle Paul, in Rom 8:16 says, that the Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God.

To the Eastern people of earliest times the world was very small, including little except Mesopotamia, Canaan, Arabia, and parts of Egypt. During Old Testament times it remained much the same, extending a little to the East, as the nations there grew to power; and other parts of Asia and Africa became somewhat known to the adventurous. Few knew more than rumours of Italy and even Greece. In the time of Christ the world really meant the Roman Empire, with parts of Asia and Africa which were more or less under its sway. All outside of this was vague. In Bible language world is frequently used for the inhabitants of the world, and, in the New Testament, of mortal existence in distinction from spiritual life.

FOREWORD

THE STUDY of the Word of God can best be facilitated by a wise and constant use of this Concordance. Here you will find almost every word of the whole Bible arranged alphabetically, so that at any time the student may find the location of any passage that he may desire. By this means also, the student will discover that many statements are incorrectly quoted from the Bible. Sometimes quotations are made which are not found in the Bible in any form. This may be discovered by consulting your Concordance and looking for any of the prominent words used in that quotation.

By means of this Concordance the student may study any subject desired. For instance, you might wish to study the subject of trees. Find the word "tree" in the Concordance, and then notice every place where the word occurs, and what is the subject under consideration. You will find that the "oak tree" is usually mentioned in connection with death. The "fig tree" is usually connected with political Israel, etc.

If you wish to study the subject of "grace," or "horses," or of the "blood," or of the "coming of Christ," or of the "judgments," or any other subject, just find that word in your Concordance and look up the various Scriptures in which that word occurs. By this means you will become well acquainted with your Bible, and with God's Truth.

If you hear a verse of Scripture quoted, and you do not know where it is found, seek the prominent word in the Concordance, follow down the Scriptures that are listed there, and you will find the verse that you desire to locate.

This Concordance is a library of instruction. It is a lexicon of explanation. It is a source of inspiration and knowledge which is indispensable to the Bible student. Permit me to encourage every student of the Word of God to own a copy of this wonderful and valuable book.
